VOL. VIII. NO. 14. GREENSBORO, N. C., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1901. Price Five Cents

GOVERNOR C. B. AYCOCK ORATOR

HE WILL DELIVER THE NEXT BATTLE GROUND ADDRESS.

This Insures One of the Biggest Crowds Ever Seen Here—Other Celebrations Should be Made to Conform to This Date.

Governor Chas. B. Aycock will deliver the address at the coming celebration at the Guilford Battle Ground. This is good news, and assures the greatest attendance ever here. The following letter is in this connection:

To the Editor of The Telegram:

We are greatly gratified to announce the fact and all will be delighted to know that Hon. C. B Aycock, Governor of all the people of North Carolina, has kindly consented to deliver the oration at the Guilford Battle Ground, on the fourth of July next. This announcement assures an immense gathering and, made thus early, we hope and respectfully ask other associations to appoint a different day for their own particular demonstrations, thus all may meet and everybody may hear Governor Aycock, at Guilford Battle Ground, on the coming fourth of July.

Yours Truly

Jos. M. Moorehead,

Vice President, G. B. G., Co.

KIDNAPPER CAUGHT.

A Close Friend of Pat Crowe—Recognized by the Victim.

Omaha, Feb. 19.—The police have under arrest James Callahan, charged with complicity in the abduction of Edward Cudahy, Jr., on the night of December 18. Callahan was arrested last Saturday, but the police have kept it a secret until today in hope of securing other arrests. Young Cudahy has positively identified him as the man who accosted him near the Cudahy residence and represented himself to be a sheriff from an adjoining county and forced him into a buggy and also as the man who kept guard over him at Melrose Hill house during the 30 hours he was kept a prisoner pending the negotiations for the ransom of $25,000, which Mr. Cudahy paid for the return of the boy. Daniel H. Burris, who sold a horse and buggy to two men who are supposed to have used it to procure the abduction, also identified Callahan as one of the men. Marie Larsen, a servant in the employ of J. N. H. Patrick, of whom the kidnappers rented a house, identified Callahan as the man who paid a month's rent in advance for a cottage in Happy Hollow, which the bandits abandoned two weeks before the abduction, fearing discovery.

Callahan was arrested by Patrolman Deuberry and Dwyer, both of whom are old acquaintences of the prisoner, one of them having gone to school with him. They also know that he was a close friend of Pat Crowe, for whom a large reward has been offered as leader in the kidnapping. Their suspicions were arroused some time ago by remarks dropped by Callahan in connection with a discussion of the Cudahy affair. Edward A. Cudahy, Sr., feels confident that the police now have one of the right men and that other arrests of equal importance will soon follow. Together with his father, young Cudahy called Sunday at the home of the chief of police and confronted the prisoner. After a half hour's talk young Cudahy said: "I could never forget that voice, and I also remember very distinctly his peculiar manner in pronouncing certain words. In his present talk he used these same words and pronounced them the same. As I had several good looks at the man while he was guarding me. I can be pretty sure that this is the man wanted."

Callahan denies absolutely that he had anything to do with the kidnapping but admits that he was a close friend of Crowe. He says he can prove an alibi and states that during the time that he spent guarding young Cudahy he was at home with his sister, a Mrs. Kelley, living at Poppleton avenue and fifty third street, which is a short distance from the Melrose Hill house.

AN IMPORTANT BILL.

To Incorporate the Order of Buffaloes.

Raleigh Post.

Who said Buffaloe?

Well this ancient and honorable order is sweeping all before it.

A bill for the incorporation of the order in North Carolina was introduced in the House yesterday by Mr. Mastin of Wilkes. The friends of the Buffaloes were so large and frequent that they knocked the life out of an effort to consign the measure to the table.

Mr. Curtis of Buncombe, moved to refer the bill to the Committee on Oysters.

Mr. Parker of Halifax displayed amazing ignorance by asking for what good purpose the bill had been introduced.

Mr. Rothrock of Rowan made himself a target for all good Buffaloes in offering a motion to table the bill.

The motion to table met disastrous defeat and the bill was referred to the Committee on Deaf and Dumb and Blind. The bill is as follows:

The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Section 1. That the Independent Order of Invincible Buffaloes of North Carolina be and the same is hereby declared a body corporate, with power to establish offices, elect officers and perform other duties of importance to the organization such as chartered benevolent associations have; and that Capt. W. W. Carraway, Walter E. Moore, S. M. Gattis, W. W. Willson, Jack Rheinhardt, C. B. Poland, Col. Frederick Ananis Olds, B. B. Nicholson, Brevard Nixon, T. W. Alexander, J. Frank Ray, Alex Lassiter, E. C. Beddingfield, E O. Mastin, Sam G. Brim, Tom Pence, T. W. Blount, George Rountree and others, with their successors, are hereby named as the incorporators.

Sec. 2. That the capital stock of the corporation shall not exceed $II,III,III.II, payable in shares of II cents each. No member to own more than one share of stock and the par value of the stock of this corporation shall be fixed II cents and shall be non-assessable and non-forfeitable and non-transferable.

Sec. 3. The treasurer of this corporation under all circumstances shall be the person last initiated and shall not be required to give bond in a greater sum than II cents. No person who is member of this grand order shall give the signal of distress at any of the following places towit: At meeting during services, at the dinner table or at any other place where two or more members are congregated.

Sec. 4. The grip shall not be given after initiation except by the single members of the order who are unmarried, and any member violating this provision shall be fined II cents.

Sec. 5. No member of the organization shall be allowed to administer an oath unless under great provication, and then not more than twice on the same occasion.

Sec. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer of the order to initiate new candidates or to appoint some other suitable person to perform the duty, and he shall impress upon the candidate the great importance to him of securing new members as soon as possible.

Sec. 7. A meeting can be held at any time or place where there are three members, and all members shall on all occasions use their best efforts to collect funds, impart information to the poor and to add to the experience of their fellow-men. It shall be the duty of members when they initiate other candidates to show at least as much delight as they did when they were themselves initiated. And the information and experience imparted shall always be at least equeal in value to the information and experience imparted shall always be at least equal in value to the initiation fee.

Sec. 8. Any Buffalo who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall not in the future be permitted to reside in the districs of Ram Cat, in Wake county, or Hanging Dog in Cherokee.

Sec. 9. That this act shall be in force from and after its ratification and after all the initiations of all members of the General Assembly and the cerical force thereto attached.

SHOT TOP OF WOMAN'S HEAD OFF

KANSAS MEN MAKE A DESPERATE RAID ON A JOINT.

After Murdering the Woman They Got Frightened and Ran Off.

Millwood, Kan., Feb. 19.—In a raid on a "joint" here by twenty masked men, heavily armed, late last night, Mrs. Rose Hudson, wife of a bar tender, was instantly killed. William Webb, one of the raiders, was shot through one arm and two or three of his companions were slightly wounded. Young farmers composed the party. Two arrests were made today and much excitement prevails over the prospect of a still more serious collision between the factions.

Shortly after 10 o'clock last night two men entered the "joint" which is said to be owned by Mrs. Michael Lochner. Warning had been served on the proprietress to cease business yesterday, but compliance was refused. When the men entered they ordered drinks, which were at once served by Bartender Hudson.

One of the men rapped loudly on the bar and at this signal about twenty more men rushed into the place. All carried arms and wore masks. Half a dozen shot-guns were raised and discharged into the ceiling, apparantly to demoralize the keepers of the place Two men rushed upon Hudson with guns levelled at his head. He grasped the barrels and pushed them aside just as they exploded. Hudson slipped to the floor. Just then Mrs. Hudson dashed in and barely had she crossed half the intervening space when another gun was discharged point blank at her head. The whole top of her skull was blown away and Hudson, regaining his feet, bore her to the rear room where she died.

Ten men are said to have been waiting under arms to help defend the "joint" from the expected raid, but when the band entered the place and began shooting the defenders became panic-stricken and decamped. When the raiders saw Mrs. Hudson fall they, too, became frightened and hastily quitted the place.

Sheriff Everhardy, of Leavenworth, was quickly notified of the raid and arrested John and Henry Wilson, farmers, charged with participating in the affair. Several more arrests are expected.

Trouble Elsewhere.

Winfield, Kan., Feb. 20.—At dawn this morning armed men began to gather in churches for the proposed battle with saloonners. Two hundred farmers armed with shot-guns and revolvers arrived before daybreak and announced their intention of helping the temperance people rid the town of saloons. It is believed that bloodshed is certain today.

SHORT LOCALS.

Miss Ella Lamb is sick with lagrippe at her home on West Lee street.

Mr. E. L. Sides is confined to his home with a severe attack of the grip.

Miss Sallie Embrey, who for several days has been sick with the grip, is better.

Mr. D. V. MacLeod has accepted a position with the Cone Export & Commission Company.

The North Greensboro W. C. T. U. will hold a meeting Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. Howard Gardner has put an automatic numbering machine in his drug store to number prescriptions.

It was Mr. Hugh C. Fry, instead of Howell C. Fry, who won the highest mark in the examination for the Naval Academy.

Rev. W. L. Grissom, who went to Baltimore several days ago for medical treatment, is rapidly improving. A letter from him states that he gained five pounds in two days.

Capt. E. L. Gilmer may come home from the Philippines this Spring. The President has approved the plan for bringing all the volunteers home before July 1st, and Captain Gilmer will no doubt come.

At the meeting of the Greensboro National Bank last night for the purpose of discussing some features of the proposed revenue bill, a committee was appointed to go to Raleigh and to find out exactly what is proposed, and report.

STATE COUNCIL.

The J. O. U. A. M., One of the Most Popular Organizations in the State, in Session in Winston.

Special to The Telegram.

Winston, Feb. 20.—The tenth annual session of the State Council of the J. O. U. A. M. convened in this city last night, with State Vice-Councilor C. B. Webb, of Statesville, in the chair. The State Councilor, Mr. B. S Nissen, of Winston-Salem, is in Mexico for the benefit of his health.

On behalf of the four local councils, Congressman-elect E. Spencer Blackburn delivered the address of welcome, making a splendid speech. Rev. W. M. Roach, of High Point, responded in behalf of the visiting Juniors.

The remainder of the night session was taken up in hearing the reports of the State Council officers. The order has prospered in North Carolina during the past year both in numbers and financial strength. The membership in the State is now over 4,000.

The State Council now has 80 active Councils, with a membership of 4,511, a gain of 586 members during the past year. The report of the secretary on receipts and disbursements of subordinate Councils is as follows: Total receipts, $33,355 46; disbursements for sick and death benefits and other purposes, $30,288.53. This shows a balance of $3,045.93.

Cash in hands of the treasurer and trustees, $6.796 10 Value of Council property, $10,840.19. Total worth of property reported, $20,682 22.

State Council finances reported collected during past year, $3,778.93; paid out, $2,700.78; balance in hand of secretary and treasurer, $2,194.63.

Previous to the meeting of the State body, in the court house at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the visitors were formally welcomed by Mayor O. B Eatop.

A banquet will be tendered the members of the State Council at Hotel Phœnix tonight.

The session will close tonight or tomorrow morning.

The next meeting will probably be held in Wilmington.

Mrs. Hallowell Dead.

Mrs. R. S. Hallowell, who has been critically ill with pneumonia for some time, passed peacefully away last night about seven o'clock. The remains will be interred in the old Quaker burying ground at Springfield church near High Point.

Mrs. Hallowell was a consistent member of the Quaker church, and was loved by all who knew her. During her last illness she gave repeated assurances of her trust in her saviour, and death found her prepared with her lamp trimmed and burning.

She leaves a husband and seven small children. all boys, the youngest twins a month old,

Boil all together with two quarts of best vinegar for two hours, then add a quarter of a pound of powdered ginger, one pound of coarse sugar, two teaspoonfuls of cayenne pepper, quarter of a pound of salt, one pound and a half of mustard seed. Mix the ingredients well together, and the chutney is fit for use at once.—Washington Star.

MR. WHITAKER ON IMPEACHMENT.

He Vigorously Opposes the Measure and Argues for Censure---A Very Able Speech.

When the question of impeachment was before the House of Representatives, Whitaker, of Guilford, spoke as follows:

This question by which we are confronted is one of great moment; partisanship should find no place in the heart of any man here; animosities engendered by the bitterness of party strife should be forgotten, and men should approach this hour calmly and deliberately, determined not only to preserve inviolate the constitution of the State, but to deal justly and honestly with the persons to whom the resolutions of impeachment refer. I question no man's sincerity of purpose or opinion in this matter. The gentlemen of the committee who favor the resolutions of impeachment are men of character—broad, liberal men, who would scorn to do an unworthy act, and whatever they may have done has been conscientiously done.

I shall not argue at length the legal aspects of this case. I shall state some propositions which I believe have been agreed to by a majority of the gentlemen who have spoken for and against this resolution.

(1) The proceedings of the House are legislative rather than judicial, although gentlemen have argued the guilt of these men in unmeasured terms before the House.

(2) The right to protest is the prerogative of any branch of government when its rights have been invaded, and may be employed to prevent further invasion of those rights.

(3) That while statute law is mandatory the application of impeachment is rather optional.

(4) That there are no specific rules for impeachment, and that each case must be tried on its own merits

This much agreed, I proceed to say that the right of impeachment is of ancient origin, and is intended to be used only in extreme cases when the immediate constitutional rights and liberties of the people are endangered by the acts of officials, and the remedy possibly long delayed. Is this applicable to his case? The office of judgeship is elective, elections are frequent, and the people with almost unrestricted rights of suffrage have an almost immediate relief if judges be corrupt, and by subverting the laws endanger the fundamental principles of our government.

The people will necessarily be the first to suffer if constitutional rights are overturned. Will gentlemen tell the House who it is demanding the impeachment of these men? Is it the people? Public sentiment is against it. Can members justify their going contrary to public sentiment by saying the people do not understand the law and the facts, and are not in a position to instruct them Is there anything in the past history of the people of our State to warrant gentlemen in a declaration by inference that we have no enlightened public sentiment in North Carolina?

Have the descendents of the heroes of Alamance, of Mecklenburg, of King's Mountain, of Guilford Court House become so callous of their rights, so forgetful of the liberties bequeathed to them by their ancestors as to sit supinely and see those rights denied and their liberties destroyed? Will gentlemen declare that men who followed Lee and Jackson so bravely, and the children of those who crimsoned the hills and valleys of Virginia with their life's blood in defense of our constitutional rights, are less zealous of their rights at this hour?

Are the lawyers of North Carolina demanding the impeachment of Judges Furches and Douglas as a body or even as a majority? I believe the gentlemen who are pushing so vigorously the resolutions of impeachment will not say so. Will gentlemen declare that the lawyers of the State are not familiar with the decision of the court, and their effects upon the welfare of the State? Then, why are they declaring this step unwise? Are they influenced by corrupt motives? Will gentlemen say that any lawyer is opposing these proceedings because he may have some case before these judges?

The people of North Carolina, lawyers and laymen, are more familiar with this question than you think The papers printed many of the decisions of the court, and declared the judiciary to be partisan. Men on the hustings declared the judiciary to be partisan; the people believe some things were done that should not be done They saw and felt the revolution that was in progress in North Carolina. They realized that we had set sail upon a dark and dangerous sea, with mists about us, and rocks ahead. The times may have been responsible for this. The people recognized the situation, and by the ballot drove from power the men whom they believed to be trafficing in the honor of the State. But, sirs, did they demand the impeachment of these judge? Did you come here with instructions from your constituents to pass resolutions of impeachment? I have heard gentlemen declare themselves tired of being instructed as to duty. You are unwilling to pass a stock law without consulting the dear people, you are unwilling to incorporate a church or school house without backing yourself up with petitions; you, gentlemen, who come here to represent your people—to represent their wants and needs as you know them, and as they instruct them—which is right—you rushing into the proceedings before the House not only without instructions from the people, but against what I believe to be, the enlightened sentiment of the State. The people of North Carolina will put new men on the Ship of State and a new pilot at its helm to lead it out of the dangerous waters, but they are saying, at least my people are saying to me—for God's sake don't dynamite the old ship. Have gentlemen viewed this case in all of its aspects?

Have gentlemen paused to consider whether or not it is wise to inaugurate now a campaign which must follow if Judges Furches and Douglas are impeached, when three Supreme Court judges and more Superior Court judges are to be elected in less than two years hence? Are the honors so slight that men will not seek for them, or the springs of human nature so exhausted that the breath of scandal may not fall, though ever so lightly, upon the men who may be chosen to wear the ermine, and upon their friends. Ah, gentlemen, worse things may come to us—suspicion may rest upon a court that should be above intrigue, which will damn us in the eyes of a people who love justice and right. Have we not already heard them? I will not believe them but others may.

"'Tis better to bear the the ills we have,
Than fly to others we know not of."

Have gentlemen of the majority paused to consider what will be the result if the substitute offered by the gentleman from Wilson (Judge Connor) and my amendment thereto of protest against the encroachments of the judiciary upon the legislative branch of government, are defeated, and the Senate fail to find Judges Furches and Douglas guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors worthy of impeachment?

Let the Legislature adopt the resolutions of protest and word will go out that we the representatives of the people have said to the judiciary thus far shalt thou approach our soverign rights an no farther. When those men are brought before the bar of the Senate the Senate must either convict or acquit. No resolutions of protest can then be entered upon the journals of this Assembly. If they are convicted they must be removed from office and their rights to hold office be taken from them. Great and brave lawyers, members of the House, after long and patient investigation of the law and the facts, declard that Judges Douglas and Furches are enemies of their State—wretches whom the preservation of the constitutional rights of the people demands shall be driven from the high office ef judgeship to private shame. Will a verdict of acquittal change the opinion of these gentlemen? Have the gentlemen a right to say the Senate will convict? I think not.

Will the protest proposed by the gentleman from Wilson be sufficient to prevent further invasion of the rights of the legislative departmen of government by judiciary. Standing here, with God knowing the thoughts of my heart, I declare to you, I believe it will! I do not believe the evidence presented by the sub-committees prove Judges Furches and Douglas to be enemies of the State. Partisan though some things they did may seem to us, I do not believe that the act for which they stand accused was prompted by corruption or private motive, or by a determination to overturn the fundimental principles of the constitution. They are men with the frailties we all possess, but men of heart and soul as well. Do you tell me that they will not now halt and consider, and take their bearings afresh and determine to preserve that constitution which they must love? Why should they not love their State? Born under its genial skies, with kinsmen resting in its bosom, with their families about them, with our mountains and hills and valleys, bringing health and happiness to them, with our varied interests appealing to them, why should they not love their State? The Chief Justice I do not know personally. His friends and neighbors say that he is honest and brave—that during the long years he has gone in and out among them his life has been above reproach

Judge Douglas I do know. A citizen of my county, I declare to you he bears the reputation of an honest man. A good citizen, a kind father, a faithful friend—he has the confidence and respect of his people.

Can such men as these be traitors?

With them I do not agree politically, I do not believe the political principles they espouse to be for the best interests of my State, and at the ballot box I and other good citizens of my county will attempt to remove them from office, but I will not do so here on the evidence introduced by the subcommittee. Let gentlemen think well before they vote to bring upon these men the infamy of impeachment. I do not come asking for mercy, but I do come asking for justice tempered with mercy. I do not come claiming these men may not have erred in judgment, but that the remedy is by plain, vigorous protest rather than by the surgeon's knife.

Impeachment for impeachable offenses, as I read the Code, is optional rather than mandatory. Gentlemen have declared that no mercy should

WEDNESDAY. FEBRUARY 20.

A HUMILIATING SPECTACLE.

One morning last week the News and Observer, of Raleigh, printed an article which said that Mr. F. H. Busbee had telegraphed an offer of his services to defend Judges Furches and Douglas in the impeachment trial, and that immediately following that offer, and before these Judges were suspended, he rushed an important case into the court out of the regular order. The implication was clear that Mr Busbee expected to have an undue influence upon the court by reason of the offer he had made to defend two of its members. On the following day Mr. Busbee read the article before the court and denounced the editor of the paper, and said that he thought he knew who instigated the article. Bearing on this subject, the following item was printed in the Post this morning:

When the Supreme Court convened yesterday morning there were three Judges on the bench They were Clark, Montgomery and Cook, Chief Justice Furches and Associate Justice Douglas being absent on account of the institution of impeachment proceedings by the House of Representatives. They will not again occupy their seats during the pending of the impeachment proceedings.

Justice Clark, as senior Judge, presided yesterday. When the court met Justice Clark took occasion to refer at some length to the incident Saturday morning, which was reported in Sunday's paper denunciatory of certain articles published in the News and Observer. He said:

"On Saturday Mr. Fabius H. Busbee brought to the attention of the court a newspaper article which he claimed reflected on the court, and referred to some unknown person who he thought had inspired it. I had not inspired it and had no knowledge, direct or indirect, as to the authorship. The proceeding was an unusual one in this court, which sits for other purposes than replying from the bench to criticisms in the newspapers, so I chose to be silent. I see it since stated in the press that it was understood here at the time, that Mr. Busbee was referring to myself. I trust that it is not true that he had such intention. There was certainly nothing in what he said, or in his manner to so indicate, and no idea crossed my mind that there was any insult intended for me. Had it been otherwise, counsel would have been promptly stopped, and proper action taken to vindicate the respect which is due to each and every member of this court.

"I make this statement at the first meeting of the court since Saturday."

We simply make the remark that we are fallen on evil times when, of the five members of our highest court, two are suspended pending trial under indictment for high crimes and misdemeanors, and another feels called upon to deny from the bench the prevailing opinion, as expressed by an attorney before the court, that he had instigated an attack upon the integrity of his fellow members. This humilitating spectacle all comes from the unnecessary proceedings now pending before the Senate. If Time, which is said to be a true prophet, does not vindicate the opinion here expressed that the impeachmeut step will prove a veritable Pandora's box, we shall cease to believe in Time's prophetic infallibility.

Looking at Proposed Park.

The street committee, consisting of Aldermen Denny, Love, Sergeant and Joyner, yesterday afternoon visited the site for a proposed park which is offered by Mr. E. P. Wharton, at the head of North Elm street, which is a part of the B. J. Fisher land. The aldermen will make a recommendation regarding the matter at the next meeting of the Board.

Fourteen acres of land are offered free to the city, the only condition at all attached, being, that it make a roadway and a walkway around it. The land lies very near the central portion of town, and could be made a most valuable park. The construction of the drive and walkway would cost about $2,000.

STREET CORNER OBSERVATIONS.

"Twenty-eight years ago tonight," he said, "I landed in America with one dollar in my pocket. I felt pretty much like an orphan then myself. I have not been back to Essex, from whence I came, since that time and I never expect to go back. This is the best country I have ever found and I have seen a great many. A man can live easier and have more and work less here than any where in the world. I am reminded tonight of that night when I landed. As I said, I felt pretty much like an orphan, and I have since done what I could for the orphans. I am waiting now for a little one to come on this train, and I will have one kiss tonight."

Who was the speaker? Why Captain Sam Browne of course, the big hearted friend of the fatherless ones.

The boys were telling a good one on a Greensboro traveling man yesterday. He was away up in the mountains and had hired a horse and buggy to go to a point way back in the country. As he was going along a lonesome road he was halted by a mountaineer who he at once saw had mistaken him for a revenue officer and had his gun down on the traveler. "I looked," said the young man, "down in the barrel of that gun and it seemed big enough to jump into. As he held it on me I thought best to turn the matter off as best I might. 'Good God, Mister,' I hollered, 'don't shoot,' you might scare my horse."

On one of the pretty, warm days recently the kodak snappers got abroad. One of them at a boarding house near North Elm was on the point of taking a picture when it got forever spoiled. The old negro cook, a genuine specimen of the old time darkey, had come out in the front yard at the solicitation of the kodak man to stand for a picture. She was standing with arms crossed and looking as solemn as if she were attending the funeral of all her kinsfolk, instead of standing out in the warm, springlike sunshine waiting to have her beauty chronicled. Just as the picture man got his kodak set ready to snap, Mr. Garland Daniels happened along and took in the situation at once. "Look pleasant, Auntie," he shouted. That spoiled it all. The kindly, solemn, old face wreathed itself into a picture-destroying grin, and with a chuckle, and a 'go way, white man, youse spiled dat picture," she darted in the house, and left the kodak man grumbling over a spoiled plate.

"There's only one way to do to get along and keep the respect of your fellows," said a well known politician this morning, "and that is to do the square thing all the time, even in politics. There always come temptations to a man to turn aside from the correct thing, but if he does not, he will never have cause to regret it. This is just as true in politics as in business The great trouble is that men don't have the moral courage to do what they know is right. Let a man fight when he will, but never strike below the belt."

Outraged innocence is never so expressive as when used by a member of the colored race. An example occurred yesterday. A negro woman hung around police headquarters with a wistful look for sometime. After taking a sun bath for an hour outagainst a telephone post, she took a seat on the steps and patiently waited for Chief Scott. Seeing her disconsolate appearance a sympathetic by-stander asked her what the trouble was. "I wants to 'peal from a magstrade, I does," she began, "and I'se lookin' fer a bonder. Dat Hannah Swif went and stole my chicken and when I 'dicted her, dat magstrade put de cost on me, and I'm goin to 'peal if I can git a bonder," and the expression of her face clearly indicated that she considered that Hannah's turpitude and the government's power had united to work an everlasting injury upon her.

be shown. So say I when it will defeat justice. But have the memories of the last General Assembly gone from them? Can men forget the eloquence of men pleading before this Assembly for mercy for a poor unfortunate man, a judge, who was known to be guilty of an impeachable offense? Mercy was shown, and the great loving heart of the people of North Carolina said Amen! Well done, good and faithful servants. You need not be afraid of the verdict of the people of your State when you temper justice with mercy. Let gentlemen think long and well before they take this step. If you believe justice demands it—that the constitutional rights—the safeguards of the liberties of the people—demand it, then God being your helper, take it. But when the heat of battle is over, when you are in a clearer atmosphere than this—when you again stand where the people are standing—you may feel that you have done a great wrong! It will be too late then. And the years will not deaden the sense of wrong. You love justice and right; your heart is all right; and when the shadows of your own life lengthen and your last days are full of honor and happiness many a time you may think of these men, one of them doubtless by that time passed to the great beyond, the other, with his faithful wife, journeying along life's road, broken and sad, weighted down with the load of infamy you have helped to fasten upon him, and cry out, Would to God it had never been done.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employe of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: 'I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestage of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows:

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to inflame and itch; it would bleed a little, then scab over, but would not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The Cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good.—MRS. R. SHIRER, La Plata, Mo.

SSS is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable. Send for our free book on Cancer, containing valuable and interesting information about this disease, and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for medical advice.

Horror Seven Hours Long

An Exhibition of Courage by a Yankee School-Ma'am.

"IT IS said," remarked the old doctor, "that a person can't live and retain his senses in a state of blind, animal terror for more than a very few minutes at a time. Either nature will take refuge in her cyclone cellar, unconsciousness, and the person will faint; or the brain tension will get beyond the snapping point and he will become insane; or the heart will collapse under the strain, and death will follow. Or any two or all of these things may occur at once. So say the authorities. I was of the same opinion once, but I've known better for a good many years, although I've never seen a second case to disprove the rule. Did it ever occur to you when some long-standing record of courage or endurance, or the ability to bear pain has been broken, how often it is a woman that breaks it?

"This was a young woman, a New England school-teacher by the name of Mildred Wicks. She had been invited to pay a visit to two elderly maiden aunts who lived on the outskirts of an old town in the central part of Virginia, where I began the practice of medicine. The house was one of those three-storied southern colonial structures with broad verandas and fluted columns the entire height of the front. From the left, in the rear, there extended a considerable wing which, in some former period of prosperity, had been given over to the guest chambers, but which now for years had been little used.

"By some misunderstanding the young woman arrived just a week earlier than she was expected, to find her aunt's house in the midst of preparatory housecleaning. It consequently became necessary, until the room in the main part of the house could be prepared for her to put her in one of the wing chambers, and in one of these, on the third floor, she was duly installed. It was one of those enormous, high-studded rooms that have entirely gone out of fashion nowadays, even in large houses. There was a great fireplace in it and solid mahogany furniture of a somber, old-fashioned type.

"The elderly aunts were somewhat apprehensive lest the remoteness and long disuse of the chamber might cause their niece some uneasiness, but she was a healthy young person not given to nervousness, and scoffed at the idea. It was arranged, nevertheless, that the housekeeper, who ordinarily slept in the main division of the house, should occupy, that night, a chamber adjoining the visitor's for the sake of company.

"At bedtime, however, an unexpected difficulty arose. It was suddenly remembered that the keys to both the young woman's and the housekeeper's chamber had been missing for a number of years, and the doors were also unprovided with inside bolts. The only duplicate keys were in the housekeeper's bunch held together by a solid brass ring, from which they could be removed only by breaking or filing the brass ring. Leaving the young woman's door entirely unsecured was, of course, not to be thought of. The housekeeper finally proposed that she should lock the door for the night from the outside, taking the keys with her into her own room and unlocking it again early in the morning. The windows of the chamber being three stories from the ground there was no possibility of intrusion from that source, and should the housekeeper's presence be needed at any time during the night it needed only a few vigorour raps on the wall to summon her. The young woman found no objection to this plan, and the housekeeer, after bidding her good-night, went out and locked the door after her.

"Left to herself, the young woman, tired from her journey, lost no time in undressing and getting into bed, and once in bed it was a very few moments until she was sound asleep. The next she knew she found herself sitting up staring out into the room. How long she had been asleep she could not tell; hours, she thought, since there had been no moon when she had gone to bed and it now shone in her window from well up in the sky.

"Then with a start it came to her that she had not awakened naturally; that there had been some sort of a noise. She peered around the room, but could see nothing alarming, and, save for the sound of the insects, the night was as quiet as the grave. So finally she lay down again and in a few moments was half-way in a doze. Then suddenly she found herself sitting up again, her heart throbbing wildly. Something was moving along the base of the wall opposite her bed. As it moved there came a series of gurgling, sputtering, sterterous sounds, exactly as though some one was choking. The young woman clutched the bed clothes and tried to pierce the darkness. But she could distinguish only the vague outline of a crouching form. The choking, gurgling sounds, however, continued, and then suddenly she heard the clank of a chain being dragged along the floor.

"The thing reached the corner of the wall and paused there for a moment. Then it emerged and began to creep slowly along the base of the second wall, which would bring it within a yard or two of the post of the bed. The young woman got as far as to her knees and remained there watching its progress. There was no question of shrieking for help. She was locked in with the thing, whatever it was, with the key of her door somewhere in the housekeeper's room, and the housekeeper asleep. She knew, too, without trying that she could get no sound out of her throat.

"It shuffled down the second wall with many pauses, but choking and gurgling always. Once she thought it might be some sort of animal, but as it passed near the moonlight at the windows she saw that it was not. It had rather a horridly grotesque resemblance to a man. Having reached the second corner it began to move along the third wall straight toward the foot of the bed. The young girl stumbled out at the head to the floor. The thing pulled itself over upon the footboard and began to search through the bedclothes. Finding nothing it tore the clothes with teeth and hands furiously. The young woman watched the process from half way down the wall. She tried to think what would have happened to her had she failed to awake when she did.

"By degrees it seemed to grow calmer, and finally in turn crawled down from the head of the bed. The young woman could not tell whether it saw her or whether it could see. As it approached, she moved softly along the wall. When she reached the corner she proceeded down the next wall, the thing following, until, with many pauses, they had made the circuit of the room. Then the circuit was repeated. On this time round she heard a clock in some distant part of the house strike 12. The housekeeper expected to call her about seven. Later she heard the same clock strike one. Once she shuddered at the thought of fainting in the thing's path, but she knew that she should not faint. She thought of its leaving the wall and making for her directly across the room, but it stuck closely to the baseboard, feeling its way along. The distant clock struck two. Then it seemed to the young woman that the journeys around the room were being made at a slower rate. The thing paused oftener, and longer at a time. Finally it must have stopped for a quarter of an hour, only to creep on a yard or two and stop again. After that it moved no more. The young woman stood watching half a dozen yards further along the wall.

"In the morning the housekeeper unlocked the door, looked in, and promptly fainted across the threshold. The young woman still stood with her hands against the wall. She tiptoed across to the housekeeper, dragged her into the hall, locked the door behind her, and went swiftly downstairs. In the sitting-room she came upon her aunts. When they saw her one of them fainted as promptly as had the housekeeper upstairs. The other ran up to her screaming:

"'Mildred, what has happened?'

"Then the young woman smiled and began talking foolishness. They called me in to see her within an hour. It happened that I had seen her on her arrival the afternoon before, a brown-eyed, dark-haired, beautiful girl. It was small wonder, therefore, that I was a bit shaky when I had been brought into the presence of my patient. In one night her face had been seared and furrowed as with the cares and sorrows of three-quarters of a century, and her hair was as white as snow. Incidentally she was suffering from an ugly-looking case of brain fever, and for two months reason, and life itself, hung in a balance that would have turned for a hair. But four months later, when she went back home under the care of her mother, her mind was as good as it had ever been, and the lines and furrows had been rubbed out of her face, and the plumpness and color of youth was returning fast. But her hair was never anything else but white as snow.

"What was the thing in her room? Nothing in the world but a horrible example of public savagery and official carelessness. There was a poor-farm some eight miles from our town, and a miserable pauper, having gone violently insane, they knew nothing better to do with him than chain him in an outhouse and treat him like a dangerous animal. You can imagine, or rather, you can't imagine, the effect on both his personal appearance and on his disease. One afternoon he escaped, carrying part of his chain with him, and in his wanderings reached the elderly aunt's house, which stood open in the midst of house cleaning. Attracted by the coolness inside he had crept up into the old wing, where he had entered one of the chambers and hidden in the great fireplace, and gone to sleep. The light of the young woman's candle that night had roused him, and his journeys round the wall were mere animal instinct searching for an exit.

"They called for him the same morning, and I saw the poor devil when they found him lying up there in the room. It is a solemn fact that his canines projected an inch below his upper lip. He didn't have on enough rags to cover the backs of a man's two hands, and his hair and beard and skin had been indescribably misused, and the poor wretch was in the last stages of consumption. But his night's adventure proved not such a bad thing for him, for he died two weeks later in comparative comfort. But the manager of that poor-farm had no such easy exit from the troubles which overtook him."

Old Spiral Car Springs.

A use has been discovered for old spiral car springs. It has been found that these often contain enough carbon to permit of making cold chisels. Forging into the necessary form is easy and the additional carbon required may be added by the cementation process. Cold chisels made in this way cost half as much as the high grades of steel which were formerly used.—American Railroad Journal.

Spain's Great Palace.

The magnitude of the escurial, the great Spanish palace, may be inferred from the fact that it would take four days to go through all the rooms and apartments, the length of the way being reckoned at 23 Spanish leagues, which is about 120 English miles.

A MONSTER DEVIL FISH

Destroying its victim, is a type of constipation. The power of this murderous malady is felt on organs and nerves and muscles and brain. There is no health till it's overcome. But Dr. King's New Life Pills are a safe and certain cure. Best in the world for stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Only 25 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store.

A powerful engine cannot be run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and it simply can't help but do you good. Howard Gardner.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS

The woman who is lovely in face form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at C. E Holton's drug store.

LAND SALE

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

THE APPETITE OF A GOAT.

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose stomach and liver are out of order All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful stomach and liver remedy gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store.

The most soothing, healing and antiseptic application ever devised is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It relieves at once and cures piles, sores, eczema and skin diseases. Beware of imitations. Howard Gardner.

A POWDER MILL EXPLOSION

Removes everything in sight; so do drastic mineral pills, but both are mighty dangerous. Don't dynamite the delicate machinery of your body with calomel, croton oil or aloes pills, when Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are gentle as a summer breeze, do the work perfectly. Cures headache, constipation. Only 25c. at C. E. Holton's drug store.

BRONCHITIS

may mean a mere cold or a chronic incurable inflammation of wind-pipes.

The quickest relief, for a cold, is also the most effectual balm for the worst condition of wind-pipes and lungs.

It takes the edge off a cold in a night, and relieves it progressively—one forgets it after a little.

An old bronchitis, however, is obstinate. Nothing restores the tissues, when once destroyed; and an old bronchitis has gradually impared and partly destroyed the lining of those small pipes between throat and lungs.

Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is the balm; it sooths if it cannot restore.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
